

AMERICAN PACKAGING

Columbus, WI

American Packaging Corporation intends to upgrade their office environment and character of their office building to align the facility with the current plant operations, staffing needs and company image. The existing 310,000+/- square foot plant has been consistently modernized over the past decade however the corporate office space has not been changed since an addition was made in 1992. Barrientos Design has developed several options for the American Packaging Board to select from for the future design of their new corporate home.

Client: American Packaging